

7-Day Vegetarian Meal Plan

For a Busy Working Professional | Goal: Weight Loss | Cuisine: Mixed Indian

Objective

This meal plan is designed for a vegetarian working professional with a full-time, desk-based job (9–10 hours/day) and limited weekday cooking time. It focuses on balanced macronutrients, sustained energy and focus through the workday, and gradual, sustainable weight loss using accessible, budget-friendly Mixed Indian ingredients.

Plan Guidelines

- Prep time capped at 20–30 minutes per meal on weekdays; batters, dals, and cut vegetables are prepped ahead on Sundays.
 - No main dish repeats more than twice across the week to ensure variety.
 - Each meal balances protein, complex carbohydrates, and healthy fats.
 - Ingredients are common, affordable, and easily available in most Indian kitchens/markets.
 - Daily calorie target: approximately 1,400–1,600 kcal, suited for gradual weight loss.

Notes

- Prep-ahead friendly: Batters (dosa/chilla/idli), boiled rajma/chole, and chopped vegetables can be prepared on Sunday for the entire week.
- Repeats capped at two: Paneer-based dishes appear twice; dal/pulse mains rotate (moong, rajma, chole, mixed dal) so no single main dish repeats more than twice.
- Macro balance: Every meal pairs a protein source (dal / paneer / sprouts / curd) with complex carbohydrates (millet, rice, or roti) and a small portion of healthy fat (nuts, ghee, or oil in moderation).

HYDRATION REMINDER: Aim for 2.5–3 litres of water daily, plus 1–2 cups of buttermilk or coconut water. Desk jobs make it easy to under-drink — mild dehydration often shows up as fatigue or false hunger.
